CITY COUNCIL ITEM

A. Minimum Wage Ordinance

Receive a presentation, hear public comments and upon conclusion, introduce by title, waive any further reading, and approve an ordinance amending the El Cerrito Municipal Code Title
6 ("Business Permits and Regulations") by adding a new Chapter 6.95 ("City Minimum Wage Standards").

Presenter: Suzanne Jarla, Assistant to the City Manager.

Speakers: Contra Costa Supervisor John Gioia, acknowledged the City Council for its leadership, particularly Mayor Friedman, for leading the minimum wage effort in El Cerrito. Supervisor Gioia said that a quarter of the households in Contra Costa County do not earn a wage that has been defined by the United Way as self-sufficient. El Cerrito is taking the lead to be the first city to adopt an ordinance that will hopefully become a model ordinance countywide. Adopting a minimum wage ordinance will help not just families in El Cerrito but will also be part of a larger countywide effort which will simplify compliance, enforcement and will have regional benefits.

Rita Xavier, San Pablo, President of the League of Women Voters – Contra Costa County, stated that the U.S. League of Women Voters believes that one of the goals of social policy should be to promote self-sufficiency for individuals and families and that the most effective social programs are those designed to prevent or reduce poverty. Minimum/Living Wage is also a California League of Women Voters priority for education and action in 2015-2017. Ms. Xavier said, without mentioning specific dollar amounts, that the League of Women Voters supports a minimum wage.

William White, United Way of the Bay Area, stated that he supports the minimum wage proposal. The United Way strongly believes that a minimum wage ordinance is one of the most powerful tools that local governments have at their disposal to lift up working families in Contra Costa County. Mr. White said a household in Contra Costa County consisting of two adults and two children would need to earn $71,000 or more per year just to be self-sufficient and meet basic needs. Mr. White stated that the United Way is hoping that passing the ordinance will set a standard for other cities in the County. The United Way applauds the City Council's leadership and consideration of the ordinance and strongly urges the City Council to pass a minimum wage ordinance.

Rochelle Pardue-Okimoto, El Cerrito and Vice-Chair of the Human Relations Commission (HRC), stated that the HRC supports an ordinance that increases the minimum wage to $15/hour. Ms. Pardue-Okimoto encouraged the City Council to include sick time in the ordinance and stated that sick time protects the worker and the public and is important to individuals, families and the community. Ms. Pardue-Okimoto stated that the Human Relations Commission, in considering the concept of minimum wage, discussed the importance of supporting small businesses with a campaign to shop local and shop El Cerrito and make sure businesses are supported while they support their workers.

David McCoard, representing the Sierra Club and as a resident of El Cerrito, stated that the City Council had received a letter from the San Francisco Bay Chapter of the Sierra Club encouraging the passage of a higher minimum wage in El Cerrito.

Sue Goldberg, El Cerrito, stated that she very much appreciates the direction the Council is taking and strongly supports minimum wage increases, particularly $15 an hour by 2018 because of the increased cost in housing. Ms. Goldberg also stated that an increase should come sooner than July 2016 and include the implementation of paid sick leave days.

George Gager, El Cerrito, Arts and Culture Commission and Economic Development Committee member, stated that the average median income for a family of four in the United States is $51,939. In San Francisco it is $101,900. In Contra Costa County the median is $92,900. Mr. Gager urged the City Council to pass the proposed ordinance and consider accelerating increases in the minimum wage in the future.

Al Miller, El Cerrito, stated that, in reviewing supplemental communications, that he was appalled to find out that someone suggested that Well Grounded Coffee and Tea located on Stockton Avenue was exploiting employees by paying them less than $15/hour. Mr. Miller stated that the proprietors of Well Grounded, Kevin and Jen, have established a community around Well Grounded that spreads beyond the boundaries of El Cerrito. Mr. Miller said he was angry that someone would make unsupported comments in public about people who have contributed so much to the young employees that they train. Mr. Miller expressed his support for the minimum wage proposal but wishes that it would be implemented sooner. Mr. Miller urged the Council to consider a training wage for those employed for the first time that would be below the proposed minimum wage for small businesses like Well Grounded that would result in a promotion to the full minimum wage upon successful completion of training.

Susan Grant, Senior Helpers, a provider of in-home non-medical care with an office in El Cerrito, stated that raising the minimum wage would damage the elderly. Ms. Grant stated that raising the minimum wage is okay for other business sectors but will be devastating for those who receive 24 hour care. Ms. Grant asked the City Council to exempt the in-home care industry because [the minimum wage proposal] will result in paying caregivers $122,000 a year for regular and overtime pay without consideration of additional employer costs and will impact protections for the caregiver, client and taxes, particularly if the jobs go underground.

Margaret Hanlon-Gradie, Executive Director of the Contra Costa AFL-CIO Labor Council, stated that raising the minimum wage, among other measures, is a way to strengthen families and communities in an age of economic inequality. Ms. Hanlon-Gradie thanked the City Council for its leadership and work and noted Labor’s appreciation that there are no exemptions in the proposed ordinance and that the wage is indexed to CPI in 2020. Ms. Hanlon-Gradie stated that service charges need to be dedicated to the worker providing the service and that this protection needs to be in the ordinance along with a sick leave policy.

Wendy Bloom, Berkeley and member of California Nurses Association, reported on the status of Berkeley’s minimum wage efforts and stated that El Cerrito is coming in behind the region. Ms. Bloom asked the City Council to consider starting at a higher minimum wage to achieve consistency in the region and include sick leave and service charge protections, and enable strong enforcement.

Gabriel Hagland, Oakland, SEIU, applauded the City Council’s leadership for bringing the issue to the forefront, summarized polling that had been done in the region and stated that it would be a mistake to go forward without paid sick leave and service protections.

Dan Jameyson, SEIU 1021, thanked the City Council for its leadership and stated that SEIU strongly supports the inclusion of paid sick leave, and a minimum wage of $12.50 upon adoption with increases to $15 by 2018.

Kevin O’Neal, El Cerrito, stated that people are not shopping in El Cerrito. Mr. O’Neal summarized the differences in population, economic sectors, commuter influx, business license tax and sales tax in El Cerrito versus San Francisco. The City Council is expecting a lot from a small amount of people to pave the way for the minimum wage increase. Mr. O’Neal urged the Council to think about ways to bring more businesses to El Cerrito and for consumers to spend money here. Raising the minimum wage will raise the cost of living of people that live in El Cerrito. Mr. O’Neal asked the Council to consider making an exemption for people under 18.

Mariana Moore, Director, Ensuring Opportunity Campaign to End Poverty in Contra Costa County, stated that increasing the minimum wage is a proven strategy to reduce poverty. Ms. Moore acknowledged the City Council, the Democratic Club and all the partners throughout the County for their leadership. The UC Berkeley Labor Study showed that increasing the minimum wage to $15/hour will benefit 1/3 of the workforce in the County. Ms. Moore said that it is her hope that the ordinance approved this evening will become a model that other cities can build on.

Jim Becker, CEO, Richmond Community Foundation and Co-Chair of the Ensuring Opportunity Campaign, acknowledged the work of the Council, staff and community leaders. Mr. Becker stated that poverty is not a natural state. Raising the minimum wage is the right thing to do and El Cerrito has the opportunity to be the champion for Contra Costa County.
Reverend Kevin Omi, Sycamore Congregational Church of Christ in El Cerrito, encouraged the Council to pass a comprehensive ordinance which would include paid sick leave days and service charge protections by 2018.

Jessica Lynam, on behalf of the El Cerrito members of the California Restaurant Association, stated that local businesses are struggling to make ends meet while employing workers that mean the most to their operation. Members in El Cerrito are operating on a thin profit margin of 3.5%. The UC Berkeley study showed that costs would increase the most in the restaurant industry. It would be 6.9% by 2020 due to a minimum wage increase. Restaurant owners are considering options such as whether to forgo expansion, lay-off employees, cut hours or close. The Association encouraged the Council to enact a more targeted ordinance to avoid unintended consequences and extend the training period to match Richmond’s and exempt workers under the age of 17. Ms. Lynam asked the Council to look into a total compensation model to avoid wage inequality and compression in restaurants and commended the Council for not including paid sick leave and service charges in the proposed ordinance.

Nicholas Arzio, El Cerrito, stated that staff presented a five year schedule for public input at several community meetings with $12/hour which is slightly different than the $11/hour that is presented to the Council this evening. The El Cerrito Democratic Club resolution identified rates that would be no less than those identified in Richmond’s ordinance. The Democratic Club would like to see slightly higher rates in 2016 and 2017 and an earlier start time.

Nicholas Gallore, El Cerrito, said that raising the minimum wage is a step in the right direction. Mr. Gallore said it was his recollection that the majority of those who attended the Council’s August 18 study session spoke in favor of moving forward with a minimum wage of $15/hour by 2018. Mr. Gallore asked the Council to move forward with an ordinance that includes $15/hour by 2018 and paid sick leave. Mr. Gallore asked the Council to listen to small businesses to avoid negative impacts, find some way to exempt businesses that bring young people into the job market, and help the elderly.

Reverend Kurt Kuhwald, Oakland, said the disparity in wealth and wages is a moral issue. Increasing wages for workers affirms the integrity of the work they are doing. Raising the minimum wage is a way to attack disparity and increase individual security. Reverend Kuhwald encouraged the Council to consider including paid sick days in the ordinance.

Reverend Dr. Melinda McLain, Mira Vista United Church of Christ, applauded the Council and the civility of the proceedings. Reverend McLain stated that this is a moral issue about basic human dignity, encouraged a more rapid implementation and the inclusion of sick leave at some point.

Jennifer Lin, Eastbay Alliance for a Sustainable Economy (EBASE), stated that EBASE is heartened by some of the aspects of the model policy presented to the Council this evening however it is not the actual model policy that EBASE would like to see. Improvements that could be made are a faster increase in the minimum wage, inclusion of paid sick days and/or service charge protections. The City of Oakland just released a report on its six month implementation of the minimum wage including paid sick leave and service charge protections. The report includes a survey of 110 businesses. Ms. Lin expressed her hope that the Council would make the minimum wage ordinance the best policy possible.

Tina Sandoval, Richmond, stated that she is a fast-food worker. Those currently making minimum wage are struggling and are having to make sacrifices. Ms. Sandoval said she cannot afford to have her daughter and son together in this Country and queried why there has to be a wait for the minimum wage to increase.

Jenny Divish, Richmond, described the difficulties of those that currently work at minimum wage. Ms. Divish encouraged the Council to pass a minimum wage ordinance with sick time provisions.
Melody Howe Weintraub, Multi-Faith Action Coalition, thanked the City Council for its work in discussing the minimum wage ordinance. Ms. Weintraub encouraged the Council to support the ordinance with the addition of a hospitality charge protection and paid sick leave.

Irene Segura, SEIU caregiver in El Cerrito, San Pablo and Richmond spoke in support of the minimum wage. Ms. Segura said home caregivers work hard with elderly and disabled individuals to improve quality of life. Often, individuals do not have enough hours authorized for good quality care but caregivers will help them to make sure they are okay. Ms. Segura said she feels that her work is valuable enough to be paid a minimum wage and she should not have to struggle to survive.

Tom Panas, El Cerrito, stated that he was supportive of the proposed ordinance and thanked Al Miller for sharing his thoughts regarding the salacious suggestions that the owners of Well Grounded exploit their workers and encouraged support for Mr. Miller’s remedies for small local businesses.

Servant Brian K. Woodson, Sr., El Cerrito, Faith Alliance for a Moral Economy, thanked the Council and urged the Council to do as much as it can, and as quick as it can, in approving the minimum wage ordinance including sick days and tip protection.

Bob Lane, Multifaith Action Coalition and Faith Alliance for a Moral Economy, encouraged the Council to consider a sick leave provision in the ordinance as it is a public health issue and not just a matter of an employer relationship but affects the health of the public. Additionally, the difference in reaching $15/hour in 2018 versus 2020 is an additional $6,000 for a low paid worker.

Mabel Lam, SEIU, spoke in support of home healthcare providers. Home healthcare providers act as a lifeline to some of the City’s most vulnerable residents, those that are chronically disabled or are elderly. Ms. Lam said she sees home healthcare workers struggle on a day to day basis just to make ends meet. Receiving sick leave is a benefit that many home healthcare workers are currently exempt from. Having a minimum wage increase would enable home healthcare providers to live in the communities where they currently serve. Ms. Lam encouraged the Council to approve a policy that is as expedient and comprehensive as possible.

Actions: Moved, seconded (Lyman/Bridges) and carried unanimously to approve by title, waive any further reading, an ordinance amending El Cerrito Municipal Code Title 6 ("Business Permits and Regulations") a new Chapter 6.95 ("City Minimum Wage Standards") as revised to include the following changes:

The City shall use the February to February August-to-August change in the CPI to calculate the annual increase, if any. A decrease in the CPI shall not result in a decrease of the Minimum Wage; and

3) Change the words “May” and “July” in Section 6.95.060(A) to “November” and “January.”

The City Council also directed staff to return to the City Council in February 2016 regarding options for policies related to paid sick leave and hospitality charge protections.
